Q4 2025 Fund Commentary

Commentary and opinions are provided by Setanta Asset Management Limited.

Market commentary

The International Monetary Fund estimates global gross domestic product growth to be 3.2% for 2025, similar to the growth rates of the previous three years. Inflation appeared to be under control in major markets, allowing interest rates to decline from previous peaks.

The U.S. administration's attempts to influence interest rates could undermine price stability in the U.S. Mortgage rates in the U.S., typically based on long-term interest rates, remained relatively high, lowering housing demand. The balance sheets of most corporations, as well as households in general, continued to be strong in both North America and Europe.

Performance

The Fund's relative exposures to Samsung Electronics Co. Ltd., Boliden AB and Sandvik AB contributed to performance. Relative exposures to The Home Depot Inc., Air Liquide SA and The Procter & Gamble Co. detracted from performance.

At a sector level, overweight exposures to the financials and information technology sectors contributed to the Fund's performance. Reflecting lower consumer confidence, particularly in the U.S., exposure to consumer discretionary sector detracted from performance.

Portfolio activity

The sub-advisor sold Fund holdings in Viscofan SA and DCC PLC during the quarter.

Outlook

The sub-advisor looks for attractively valued companies in global markets. The sub-advisor's investment decisions are not driven by macroeconomic events and does not include any macroeconomic forecasting in the search or selection process.

The sub-advisor searches for companies with both capacity and commitment to pay dividends, which means that balance sheets and cash flow are important. The sub-advisor expects stocks to have a sustainable payout ratio, which means that dividend growth is also important. The Fund is also focused in high-yield sectors and regions, but the sub-advisor also believes in diversification.
