Q4 2025 Fund Commentary

Commentary and opinions are provided by C WorldWide Asset Management.

Market commentary

International equities rose during the fourth quarter of 2025, driven by European equities. At the sector level, the main drivers of performance were the information technology and health care sectors.

Performance

Relative exposure to AstraZeneca PLC contributed to the Fund's performance. The company reported better-than-expected third-quarter 2025 results for sales and earnings because of its oncology segment and cost controls. Exposure to MercadoLibre Inc. detracted from performance. The company saw competition from Amazon.com Inc., which increased its investments in Brazil. A recent announcement related to a partnership between Amazon.com and Nubank in Brazil led to investor worries.

At a sector level, security selection in the health care and utilities sectors contributed to the Fund's performance. Selection in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors detracted from performance.

At a regional level, overweight exposure to Taiwan contributed to the Fund's performance. Underweight exposure to Japan detracted from performance.

Portfolio activity

The sub-advisor added to the Fund a holding in Contemporary Amperex Technology Co. Ltd. for the company's scale, vertical integration, cost leadership and partnerships with leading auto makers. The Fund's holding in Novo Nordisk AS was sold because of the sub-advisor's lower confidence in the company's innovation pipeline.

Outlook

The Fund holds what the sub-advisor believes is a balanced structure of companies in different parts of the growth spectrum. The sub-advisor is focused on growth companies with good cash flows and strong balance sheets, which we believe are not only crucial for long-term investing but also of paramount importance in the current environment.
