Q3 2025 Fund Commentary

Market commentary

European equities delivered gains for the third quarter of 2025. Banks were the strongest performers driven by both a steepening yield curve and expectations for higher government fiscal spending. Companies that benefited from spending related to artificial intelligence also performed well.

Performance

The Fund's relative exposure to CRH PLC, ASML Holding NV and Legrand SA contributed to performance. Relative exposure to Deutsche Boerse AG, Demant AS and Alcon Inc. detracted from performance.

At the sector level, underweight exposure to communication services contributed to performance. Stock selection within health care and financials detracted from performance.

Portfolio activity

The sub-advisor added STERIS PLC and sold GSK PLC during the quarter.

Outlook

The sub-advisor looks to invest in attractively valued companies and is not driven by macroeconomic events. The sub-advisor doesn't include any macroeconomic forecasting in the search or selection process.
